

Nightclubbing In Java Offers Low Quality, Steep Prices

By HAL BOYLE
Batavia, Java (AP) — Nightclubbing in riot-torn Java is like spending a noisy evening in the Lone Star saloon back in gold dust days of the American wild west.

You can expect anything from brass knuckles to Mickey Finns, and if your only souvenir is a hangover you can figure you came out ahead. Batavia's nightclub proprietors haven't got around yet to using canal water in their drinks. The most popular concoctions are a skull-cracking brandy that appears to have been distilled from Japanese pine-needle gasoline, and a dubious cocktail mixed with equal parts of cherry flavoring, saccharine and some high-voltage ingredient that smells like mothballs soaked in vinegar and coconut juice.

Brawls Erupt
When these two brews are indiscriminately mixed in the stomachs of Java's cosmopolitan nightclub set, brawls erupt which make this island's daytime struggles for independence from Dutch rule look like an ordinary lodge election.

There is only one war in the daytime—that's more or less between the natives and the Dutch. But at night you can choose from half a dozen wars among as many nationalists. The wise man plays the role of bystander—but you have to be fast on your feet.

At present only two real nightclubs are open. The third, which catered largely to Japanese soldiers off duty, had to turn itself into a "day club" to save its remaining fixtures from demolition.

Low Quality, High Price
The remaining nightclubs are at Barbary Coast level in quality and Stork club level in price. They feature dim, colored lights, tinpan orchestras and both white and Eurasian "common" girls hired for their ability to drink customers under the table.

Their clientele consists of former Dutch internees, Eurasians, British soldiers and sailors and American merchant seamen, a few local tired business and wealthy natives and a number of castaway German submarine crewmen. It is a highly explosive mixture.

One Japanese soldier made the mistake of trying to attend a nightclub with a native girl. Although he was wearing civilian clothes his identity was discovered and the mob descended upon him without any reference to his rights under the Potsdam declaration. He was beaten to the consistency of amber jelly, then picked up spread-eagle and tossed out into the night in the general direction of Tokyo.

Out Go Nazis
Three blond, tough-looking German submariners at the other nightclub on the same embattled evening got off more easily. They were in shirtsleeves at the bar, drinking alone. When a group of American and English sailors learned they were Nazis they muscled over and invited them to leave. The Germans sneered and started to make an issue of the matter but after a quick glance at the opposition, Hans, Fritz, and Hermann tossed down their drinks and edged out the back door.

With no one else to fight, the American and British exchanged congratulations, and a few drinks later started throwing fists among themselves.

Jap Fortunes In Diamonds, Platinum, Gold Are Found

By DUANE HENNESSY
Tokyo, Oct. 17 (AP)—American searchers have found fortunes in diamonds, platinum, gold and silver which Japanese admirals and generals had cached in secluded areas—but never were able to remove from the country because the war ended so abruptly.

General MacArthur's headquarters disclosed today that one party discovered "a fabulous fortune in diamonds" in a chicken coop atop a mountain 160 miles north of Tokyo. In another instance, a package resembling a packet of hamburger yielded 8,000 karats of diamonds.

Eleven crates of platinum were discovered beside the chicken coop. Two Japanese admirals' aides guided Americans to the cache.

OBSOLETE GUNS AVAILABLE FOR TOWN DISPLAYS

Thousands of obsolete guns, howitzers, tanks and other ordnance items will soon be released to take the place of the community's old cannon or howitzer that went to war via the nation-wide scrap drive.

Brig. Gen. John W. Coffey, commanding Letterkenny Ordnance Depot, announced today.

After Pearl Harbor many communities and organizations swelled desperately needed scrap piles with their Civil War cannon and pyramids of cannon balls. Town squares were stripped of all World War I weapons to add to the drive.

These community organizations can now apply for items of obsolete combat materiel which the ordnance department is authorized to scrap according to a recent policy announced by Maj. Gen. Henry B. Saylor, deputy chief of ordnance in Washington.

Eligible Receivers
Also eligible are posts of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, American Legion, Grand Army of the Republic, Sons of Veterans Reserve, and other war veterans' associations, non-profit museums and municipal corporations.

About 4,000 weapons valued at more than $10,000,000 in original cost have been declared obsolete by the War Department. Over 2,000 of these weapons are big guns and howitzers.

Organizations applying to the Chief of Ordnance, Washington, D. C., for these obsolete weapons must assume all packing, handling and transportation expenses from the nearest depot. Howitzers weigh about 12,000 pounds; big guns run about 26,000 pounds, light tanks tip the scales at about 33,000 pounds, and transportation expenses should be considered before ordering a new decoration for the village green.

INDONESIANS FRETTE OVER RESTLESS RULE

By J. M. ROBERTS, JR.
AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

Indonesian references to "non-violence," similar to those which have accompanied India's sporadic outbursts in her long search for liberation from western domination, serve to remind that the present situation in Java is not some new post-war manifestation, but rather a continuation of a movement which has become indigenous to southeast Asia.

Throughout Burma, Malaya and the Indies, long before the war, there was a growing restlessness and sometimes openly hostile attitude toward the British, French and Dutch administrators of a rich western Pacific area where men produced, for a few cents a day, tremendous wealth which went to swell western standards of living.

Held Natives Down

Instead of establishing educational and health centers by means of which native populations might prepare themselves for self-government, the ruling powers permitted continuation right up to World War II of a system reminiscent of the earliest days of imperial expansion. Even with the growth of some feeling of moral responsibility after World War I, little had been done to raise the position of the various Malayan peoples.

When the new war broke, the British and French found the situation disastrous. While we had little evidence one way or another from Java at the time, it is reasonable to assume that Indonesian leaders there, having formed a considerable underground liberation movement long before the war, were not too sorry, in the beginning, to see the Japanese oust their Dutch masters.

Japs Lost Chance

It is easily believable that the Japanese, except for the ineptness which characterized their entire war effort, might have mobilized all southeast Asia and at least parts of China and India on their side. Instead they substituted open and forceful theft for suave cultivation, and their chance was gone.

In dealing with the European countries the Malaysians, including the Indonesians, have before them the example of the Philippines, where in 50 years their relatives have progressed from island primitiveness to self government. The 150 million are not likely to be satisfied with anything less. Even persuading them to accept the enlightened tutelage necessary before independence may prove extremely difficult in their present state of mind.

BLONDE NAZI ADMITS USING LASH IN CAMP

By CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN

Lueneburg, Oct. 17 (AP)—In a voice charged with defiance, blonde 22-year-old Irma Grese admitted under cross examination today that she lashed prisoners at the Oswiecim concentration camp with a cellophane-braided whip and clubbed them with a walking stick.

She said she scourged the prisoners in spite of camp orders against such methods of handling them.

The hard-visaged young SS guard denied under questioning by Prosecutor Col. T. M. Backhouse that she amused herself by sending women to work at a sand pit outside the wire, where they would be shot by guards on the alert for escape attempts. Backhouse suggested she was lying and she snapped:

"I took an oath to tell the truth, and you can think what you like. But I'm not lying. I never sent women across the wire."

Denied Having Dogs

Extremely nervous under the barbed cross examination, she constantly locked and unlocked her fingers, or tugged at the sleeve of her SS tunic.

She also denied she had set trained dogs on the prisoners.

"I suggest you had a dog," the prosecutor said.

"I should know better than you if I had a dog," she retorted defiantly.

Later Backhouse accused her of habitually kicking and beating the women prisoners, and of enjoying the practice. The defendant almost rose from her seat and shouted:

"And I say you are badly informed about me and it's a big lie!"

NAVY REDUCES REQUIREMENTS FOR DISCHARGES

Washington, Oct. 17 (AP)—The navy has marked down discharge scores for most of its personnel, with a goal of releasing more than 1,100,000 officers and men by New Year's. Previously the service had expected to send home only about 830,000 by Christmas.

Announcing cuts effective November 1 for all but a few classifications, the navy also promised further reductions in point scores in December and January.

For most enlisted men the point score total was cut from 44 to 41. Further reductions to 39 on December 1 and to 38 on January 1 were promised.

Officers Cut Too

Other groups affected by the change which steps up the navy's discharge program by two months are:

Male officers, other than doctors—point totals reduced from 49 to 46. Effective December 1 the score needed will be 44, and January 1, 43.

WAVE officers—Point total from 35 to 32 November 1; to 30 December 1; to 29 January 1.

Enlisted WAVES—Total cut from 29 to 26 November 1; to 24 December 1; to 23 January 1.

To Release Doctors

Medical officers—Previously announced reduction from 60 to 53 points will become effective November 1. Further cut to 51 forecast for January 1.

The navy estimates 3,300 doctors will be released by New Year's. Nurses—Present point score of 35 for unmarried nurses will be cut to 33 on January 1. All married nurses will be released by November 1.

Aviators—Navy expects to announce plan before November 1 for speeding releases. No change now in 44 total for fliers above rank of ensign and 36 for ensigns.

Mailmen and Class C Specialists—Become eligible for release under point totals of 44 for men and 29 for women on November 1.

BAN ROBBERY SUSPICION IN MAN'S MURDER

Pittsburgh, Oct. 17 (AP)—Police reported today the missing wrist watch and ruby ring of Frank Amberson have been found, thus eliminating robbery as a motive in the fatal shooting of the 50-year-old Springdale, Pa., candy merchant.

Hector Marianna, assistant police bureau operator, said he found the ring and watch when he searched Amberson's auto. Marianna was stricken with appendicitis the same day and the items were in his possession when he was sent home ill.

Police Commissioner Harvey Scott said he was "inclined to believe" the shooting of Amberson could have happened in the way William Blader, 18-year-old part-time student, described it in his third statement to police.

Uphold Character

Blader contended he shot Amberson because the merchant tried to molest him.

Friends of Amberson angrily denied the merchant's character was such as described by Blader. Superintendent Scott, said, too, all the evidence uncovered by police tended to show Amberson's character and reputation was irreproachable.

Miss Sally Hetrick, an employee in the Amberson confectionery, said that on last Wednesday night—one of the nights Blader claimed in his statement to have seen Amberson—the merchant "stayed at home and washed his dog, Mitzel, after work."

J. F. Mitchell, superintendent of two schools in the Springdale district, declared he knew both Amberson and his wife well and that "they are among the finest people I ever knew anywhere. Mr. Amberson seemed especially pleased (Thursday night) that he was going to bring his wife home from the hospital next day."

Conneaut Lake, Pa., Oct. 17 (AP)—A 53-inch muskellunge weighing 48 pounds—the one caught by Merle Klingsmith—sounds like a big one, but it's only the third largest caught in Conneaut lake. Biggest, a 57-pounder, was hauled out by Lewis Walker.

Impose Fine On Striking Miners

Pittsburgh, Oct. 17 (AP)—The Western Pennsylvania Coal Operators association disclosed today its members are imposing the $1-a-day fines on miners idle in the 26-day-old coal strike, on grounds the stoppage is illegal and violates the United Mine Workers' contract.

This applies to 46,703 idle miners in the Pittsburgh-Uniontown area. More than 64,000 bituminous miners in the state are idle, including 17,318 in the Altoona area.

The association declared in a statement that the strike situation "is acute and easily can be long drawn out and expensive to all."

The Biglerville schools will be given a half day holiday Friday in order that members of the faculty may attend a Southern District Education convention in York.

Four Charged In "Marriage Racket"

Pittsburgh, Oct. 17 (AP)—Three justices of the peace and an Allegheny county policeman today faced charges filed in 28 informations as a result of conducting what complaints said was a "marriage license racket."

The justices were Stephen Marcus, Glassport; J. Dale Gamble, Oakdale, and Michael A. Rudman, Braddock township, and charges including misbehavior in office and extortion under color of office. The policeman, Owen F. Downs, who has been suspended, was charged with conspiracy.

A statement filed by District Attorney Russell H. Adams cited specific charges in which couples were charged as high as $18 for a marriage license. One instance:

"Joseph Anthony Cappozzi, a soldier of Punksutawney, and Elizabeth Marina, of Glassport, said they obtained a marriage license September 6, one day after they applied for it. For this service, Marcus charged them $7.50. This was done by prebating the application from September 5 to September 1."

1 Killed, 1 Hurt In Freak Accident

Altoona, Pa., Oct. 17 (AP)—A freak accident killed one man and sent another to the hospital last night.

Dr. Joseph Ronan was driving Charles G. Frank, 47, and Theodore Devine, 45, to their homes after a visit at his house.

The car stalled. A friend, John Speacht, who lived nearby, offered to push Dr. Ronan's car to get it started.

The bumper did not mesh. Frank and Devine climbed on the rear bumper of the doctor's car to weight it down.

When Speacht's car applied the push, the bumper sprang suddenly, hurling both men to the street.

Frank's skull was fractured and he died within an hour.

Devine, cut and bruised, was taken to Mercy hospital for observation.

CIO ENTERS RR LABOR FIELDS THRU ELECTION

Philadelphia, Oct. 17 (AP)—The CIO made its first dent in the railroad labor field, unofficial returns of a National Mediation Board election showed today, when it was named bargaining agent by three groups of Pennsylvania railroad shop workers.

The CIO-requested election, largely ever held by the board, involved 62,253 employees, 14,383 of whom are in the armed forces.

A board spokesman said five PRR groups—machinists, blacksmiths, sheet metal workers, carmen and electricians—voted to retain the Brotherhood of Railroad Shop Crafts of America (independent) as bargaining agent.

A total of 44,704 will be represented by the brotherhood, the spokesman said, and 17,069 by the United Railroad Workers of America (CIO).

Some Returns Close

The mediator explained that the vote was close in several instances and may be changed when official returns are certified at Washington. The election was held August 20 to September 20.

JAVA HIT BY WAVE OF UNREST

Batavia, Java, Oct. 17 (AP)—Political unrest seethed throughout Java today as the Indonesian Nationalist Council awaited a reply from the Allied command in the Netherlands East Indies to a set of four major Nationalist demands which Council Vice President Mohammed Hattin said represented "the only way to bring peace to this troubled land."

(In Amsterdam Dr. H. A. Logemann, Minister of Overseas Territory, said the government was ready to offer Indonesians self government within the Dutch commonwealth and would deal with Indonesian leaders "who merit consideration," but not with Soekarno, president of the "Indonesian Republic.")

The four-point program submitted to Lt. Gen. A. F. Christison, Allied commander in the Netherlands East Indies, called for removal of all Japanese, deportation of all Dutch troops and prevention of the arrival of additional Dutch soldiers, a quiescent role for the Netherlands Indies civil administration, the recognition by an impartial United Nations committee of the Indonesian National Council as the de facto government of the country.

This correspondent asked Hattin if he expected "to beat the Dutch by force when you have no guns, tanks or planes," and he replied:

"We shall win through peaceful means. That is why President Soekarno is now touring Java to restrain hot-headed sections who use violent methods. But the Dutch aiming tommyguns at us does not help the situation. In fact it presages trouble. We stand on non-violence."

Retailers Warned On Surplus Goods

Harrisburg, Oct. 17 (AP)—Pennsylvania's retailers were advised today to prepare themselves for the time when the government lets loose with a flood of surplus property.

"The goods that is now being made available is just a trickle to what is coming," John F. Tuggett, acting director of the Philadelphia regional office of the U. S. Department of Commerce's surplus property division, predicted at the annual meeting of the Pennsylvania Retailers association.

William H. Hager, Lancaster, was re-elected president, and S. H. Heckman, Johnstown, was returned as vice president. Albert Coons, Lebanon, succeeded W. H. Burchfield, Pittsburgh, as second vice president.

Interesting News Of Upper Adams Countians And Their Enterprises

APPLE HARVEST NEARLY ENDED IN THIS COUNTY

The harvest of one of the highest-priced and one of the cleanest crops of apples gathered in Adams county in a number of years is all but complete and earlier estimates of its size remain generally unchanged at about a million and a half bushels, a figure considerably below the 10-year average.

In spite of the most severe labor shortage the fruitmen have faced since the beginning of the war, most orchards have been stripped of their apples with Jamaicans and German Prisoners of War helping accomplish that task.

From the standpoint of insect damage to the crop, this year's apples were "clean" but the wet weather during the growing period caused considerable cracking in some varieties with consequent loss in value.

Most Apples Harvested
A great majority of the apples harvested in the county this year went to market immediately with the canneries getting a good share of the orchards' produce. The high prices offered by the canneries and the good prices for fresh fruit on the market kept much of the fruit from storage.

One of the chief jobs of the Emergency Farm Labor office for the county during the last six weeks has been to attempt to meet the labor needs of the fruitmen. All of the Jamaicans available for use in this county were pressed into service and there were always more re-

PLANS THEATER IN BIGLERVILLE

A modern theater building with an auditorium that will seat 400 to 500 persons is to be erected in Biglerville as soon as materials are available, according to the plans of William H. Snyder, Jr., who for the last six years has been operating the independent Earl theater in New Oxford.

Mr. Snyder has bought a double lot along South Main street, opposite the B. G. Walter garage, from O. C. Rice and Son where he will erect the theater building. The property has a frontage of 130 feet and is 165 feet deep.

Mr. Snyder says he plans to operate the theater six evenings a week. Whether his building plans will include space for offices or storerooms and apartments has not been determined, he said.

quests for PW labor on file than there were prisoners to fill them.

A potato grower in the lower part of the county was using PMs to harvest his crop and when the prisoners were withdrawn with the closing of the temporary camp here, the potato farmer was forced to resort to schoolboy help for raising the remainder of his crop.

Orchardists who have finished their apple picking report a continuing need for help in treating peach orchards for borer control. It is already late for that job but a number of peach growers report they have not been able to get enough help to complete the borer control work, an important safeguard for the 1946 peach crop.

Brazil is the only country of Pan America which was an Empire for any length of time.

Farm Calendar

Protect Poultry Ranges—Heavy pasturing of the poultry range too late in the fall may seriously damage the grass and legumes for next year. Poultry extension specialists of the Pennsylvania State college suggest that the mature pullets be housed so that the flock is gradually reduced, and wear and tear on the range are diminished.

Avoid Accidents—Corn pickers cause 10 per cent of all farm accidents in Pennsylvania, and during the last three months of the year they cause one-fifth to one-third of all farm accidents for that period. Extension agricultural engineers of the Pennsylvania State college say not to work around moving parts and to use shields.

Cool Milk Properly—To maintain milk quality, hold the milk in insulated cooling tanks that are kept full of clean, pure, cold water. Air cooling is slow and promotes spoiling by bacteria.

Start Erosion Control—With the planting of winter wheat, some fields can be laid out in strips on the contour. This will give a start on this important work and next spring other strips can be started.

Run Furrows Now For Tree Planting

Plans for tree planting in the spring can be advanced by turning the furrows now suggests County Agent M. T. Hartman.

If furrows are turned in the fall the ground will have a chance to settle and absorb more moisture.

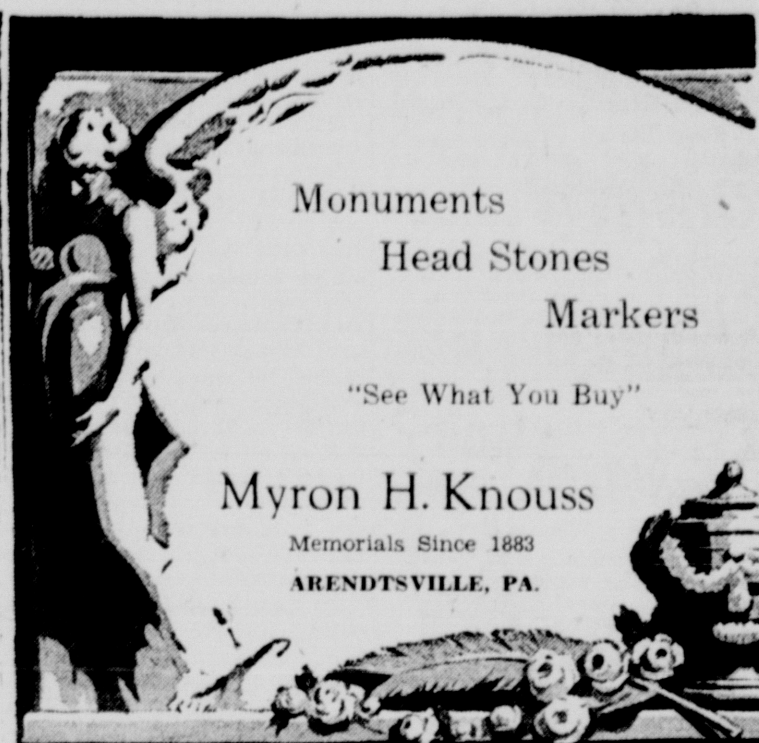

Furrows can be run to aid drainage, or on the contour to hold more moisture, to suit conditions. On level land furrows should be 6 feet apart, and 7 to 8 feet on sloping ground.

Kieffer Pears Useful—Kieffer pears, often wasted, can be eaten fresh, cooked or preserved, if properly ripened. Holding the pears at a temperature of 60 to 65 degrees for 2 to 3 weeks provides best quality and texture. With existing fruit shortages, no pears should be wasted.

DDT For Seed Storage—The new insect-killing chemical, DDT, has been found effective for control of insects in seed storage. Bags may be treated with the material, or DDT dust can be used on the floor. Only seed saved for planting should get DDT treatments, they cautioned.

Ventilate Immature Corn—Corn crops which failed to mature fully require ample ventilation, remind extension agricultural engineers at the Pennsylvania State college. They suggest use of a removable ventilator in the corn crib to provide extra circulation of air.

Pastures Need Winter Coat—Pastures should be allowed to make ample growth before cold weather.

Besides the protecting cover or "coat" above the ground this aids in renewal of the root system and storage of root nutrients, needed for an early and vigorous start next spring.

Just Folks

By EDGAR A. GUEST

ABOUT CHILDREN

When they feed them first and say: "Off to bed!" or "out to play!" We have company for tea, Quiet we should like to be, This I think: well dressed and clean, Little children should be seen.

Children, said some sage absurd, Should be seen and never heard. Some old bachelor or maid (Hope deferred and love delayed) Dwelling in a thin-walled flat Must in rage have muttered that.

Yes. Admit it oft I will, There are times I like them still. But to keep them out of sight Never seems to me just right. Here's exactly what I mean: Little children should be seen.

Company coming? Bring them in. Toused hair and toothless grin. Youngsters are a source of pride Not a shame we ought to hide. Good to us the Lord has been! Little children should be seen.

Today's Talk

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

THINGS I LIKE

Here are things that I like. (I am always wondering what other people like.) For instance, I like to look into antique shop windows. I like to browse in bookshops and get lost in them, forgetting the time of day. I can be happy, and extremely lazy, putting about my summer camp. I like to make things, fix things, improve things about the place. I love to sit on the shore of a lake, or ocean, and watch the sun go down—meditating there until day is lost and night is all aglow with stars.

I love to talk with people who fish and who farm, with those who work with their hands. Their viewpoints are always so honest and so full of truth. I love to study birds and their habits, their calls and their significance in this world.

Old places fascinate me. Historic romance, and interesting events so close to them. Little out-of-the-way eating places intrigue me. I love the smell of printer's ink, fresh upon the papers, that fall so like leaves from the great presses, and I love the hum of those presses.

I like to read books that have meant much to me, in their original first editions—because I fancy that I get a glimpse into the writer's soul and share his struggle and early hopes.

Winding roads, in an interesting country, are sprinkled with surprises. I like them. Every new one promises you something—just around the corner.

I like rasin pie, corn sticks, and maple sugar—but not as a steady diet.

My favorite summer flower is the white pond lily. It is the queen of flowers, with its beautiful graceful green leaves that seem to dream upon the surface of the water. I love the mystery of all waters, whether such be a stream, a lake or an ocean.

I like trees. There is more character in them than almost any other creation in the realm of the natural world. They almost talk at times. And they almost seem to take upon themselves a human expression.

I like people who are themselves.

Tomorrow Mr. Adams will talk on the subject: "It's How You Take It"

SEEK HARVEST AID

Warren, Pa., Oct. 17 (AP)—For aid in harvesting 200,000 bushels of potatoes which otherwise might rot in the fertile fields of Warren county, C. C. Winans of the Emergency Farm Labor committee today appealed to students, clerks and business men. Winans said arrangements already have been made in some rural areas to permit pupils and teachers to help gather crop.

Out Of The Past

From the Files of the Star and Sentinel and
The Gettysburg Times

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

New Pastor Preached: Rev. E. H. Hummelbaugh, newly appointed pastor of the United Brethren church here, made his first appearance Sunday evening before his Gettysburg congregation. Rev. W. R. Glen occupied the pulpit in his new church at Frederick Sunday.

Sterner-Oyler: Mervin Sterner, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Sterner, of Gettysburg, and Miss Grace Oyler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Oyler, of Bendersville, were married Thursday morning in Hagerstown.

Fly Will Climb Bank Building: The First National Bank Building, Center Square, has been selected by the American Legion here as the stage upon which Harry H. Gardiner, "The Human Fly" will give two daring performances Thursday, Farmers' Day.

Married At Parsonage: Isaac Jacob Metz, son of Mr. and Mrs. William H. Metz, and Minnie Alice Kump, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Kump, both of Hamilton-ban township, were married Thursday morning at 10 o'clock at the United Brethren parsonage by Rev. W. R. Glen.

Raymond Redding Marries: Miss Helen Strausbaugh, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Strausbaugh, of New Oxford, became the bride of Raymond Redding, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph C. Redding, of near Gettysburg, at a nuptial high mass performed in the church of Immaculate Conception by Rev. J. B. Shanahan Tuesday morning at 7:30 o'clock.

Miss Margaret Redding and Joseph Strausbaugh were maid of honor and best man.

After April first Mr. and Mrs. Redding will live near Gettysburg.

Elect New Teacher: Miss Margaret E. Troxell, York street, has been elected by the Gettysburg School Board as teacher of the Fourth Grade in the High Street Building, to succeed Mrs. Mary E. Wible, deceased. Mrs. Joseph Codori, substitute teacher, has taught the school up until this time.

Largest Score In This Century: Showing an offensive as mighty in its power as the seething current of Niagara, the Gettysburg College football eleven engulfed the team representing Western Maryland Saturday afternoon and strangled them by a score of 68-0.

A painstaking search revealed that the score 68-0 is the largest that has been rolled up on Nixon field since 1899 when Dave Dale's team overwhelmed Physicians and Surgeons School of Baltimore by the count of 106-0. The largest score rolled up by a Gettysburg team away from home this century was 72-0 at Lancaster in 1906.

Touchdowns: Bream 4, McDowell 3, Mordan, Phillips. Goals from touchdowns: Bream 7 out of 8; Phillips 1 out of 1; Fuhrman 0 out of 1. Time of quarters: 12 minutes.

Cleveland Wins World's Title: Cleveland, October 13—Baseball champions of the world. The Cleveland American League Clubs won that supreme title here Tuesday afternoon when the Indians defeated the Brooklyn Nationals in the seventh and deciding game of the 1920 series by a score of 3 to 0.

The shutout victory was chiefly engineered by Stanley Coveleskie, the spitball hurler of the local team, who has proved to be a pitcher of remarkable skill and endurance during the series.

Coveleskie's defeat in winning three of the five games necessary to clinch the championship for Cleveland will go down as one of the outstanding features of world series history.

At Harrisburg Sessions: Attention of all Adams county Sunday School workers is now focused on the state convention being held this week in the Chestnut Street Auditorium, Harrisburg, where delegates from all parts of Pennsylvania have gathered for their annual session.

Governor William C. Sproul addressed the convention on Thursday evening.
Rev. T. C. Hesson, P. S. Orner, S. W. Frost, Miss Annie Sheely, Arendtsville; M. E. Knouse, Brysonia; Mrs. Ida Mumper, Mrs. Cleo Mumper, Miss Ethel Culp, Miss Lily Dougherty, Harold Creager, Mrs. William Wenz, Miss Carrie Stall-smith, Mrs. John Wright, Mr. and Mrs. T. Winebrenner, Gettysburg; Luther Cashman, New Castle; Mrs. J. C. Bierly, Mary Grace Hoover, New Oxford; Rev. A. J. Martin, of York Springs; Mrs. Elizabeth Cullings, Bendersville; George H. Knouse, Mrs. U. S. Kleinfelter, Biglerville, and Rev. C. W. Heller, Biglerville, are among the persons from Adams county attending the convention.

Personal: Mr. and Mrs. Walter Sterner, Stratton street, announce the birth of a daughter.

Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Gow, of Alliance, Ohio, were recent visitors at the Broadway home of Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Thomas.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Eberhart, of Chambersburg street, have left on an extended trip to points in Canada.

SEVEN GERMANS BAFFLED YANKS BEHIND FRONT

By HAL BOYLE

With American Forces in Japan (AP)—More new stories from old notebooks:

The American Fifth Army was stalemated before Cassino. It was January, 1944. The Italian landscape was sodden with cold rains. Troops even then were beginning to suspect that Italy had more hills than a snake's spine. And Germans were on every hill. The "soft underbelly of the Axis" was a myth.

The Nazis had retreated slowly from the Vulture, skillfully selling the ground for as high a blood price as possible. But once backed into his powerful Cassino mountain line, Field Marshal Kesselring wasn't yielding a mole mound. From their ridge heights the Germans could look across a valley and see American-held "Million Dollar hill." The doughboys named it that because they said it cost a million dollars worth of artillery shells to take it.

Group In Cave

In a miry meadow some miles behind the front, a tank outfit was bivouacked awaiting its call to action. With time on their hands to improvise shelter the boys had made themselves as comfortable as you can get in Italy in the winter.

Italian peasants noted with considerable envy one group of seven doughboys who had set up house-keeping in a cave. A land short of fuel they had managed to find both coal and wood ration boxes, and a fire flamed brightly all day.

One day an Italian peasant while chatting with the tank commander asked why there was favoritism in the American Army. The surprised commander asked his meaning.

"Well," said the peasant, "most of your men have to stay in the muddy field and work on their tanks, but on the other side of that hill"—he pointed—"there are seven soldiers who do nothing all day but sit in a warm cave."

Short On English

The commander decided to pay a visit to these fortunate individuals. As he neared the cave he called out to a soldier in the doorway wearing an infantryman's uniform:

"What outfit are you with son?"
The soldier grunted unintelligently and pointed vaguely over the hill. He began to back away. Out came the commander's gun. He knew something was wrong. As the soldier turned and shouted a warning to his comrades in guttural tones, the commander stepped to the entrance and covered the group.

"Okay," said one soldier reassuringly.

"Okay what?" said the commander.

But that was all the English the soldier knew. The seven men were Germans. They had deserted their army and donned American uniforms, probably obtained by stripping battlefield dead.

As the red-faced and angry commander marched them toward prison camp, he swore wrathfully:

"What makes me so damn mad is that these skunks have probably been eating in my chow lines for a week."

VAST PLAN FOR PUBLIC WORKS

Harrisburg, Oct. 17 (AP)—The Pennsylvania state and local governments will "cooperate in a vast undertaking that will involve expenditures totalling well in excess of a billion dollars," Governor Martin reported today.

"This will supplement, in the form of public works, the other billions which will be spent by private industry in the Commonwealth, a large proportion of which grand total eventually will find its way into the pay envelopes of Pennsylvania's returned members of the armed forces and demobilized war workers."

The governor devoted the fourth in the series of reports on Pennsylvania progress during the past two years, to a summary of plans laid for the transition from war to peace conditions.

He considered projected public works along with other measures prepared as a guarantee to returning servicemen that "Pennsylvania would be a better state in which they might work and live."

A $110,000,000 state surplus was on hand, he said, "to implement the immediate financing of a postwar program designed ultimately to cost $184,885,000 without entailing any rise in taxes or imposition of any new taxes."

Petroleum was discovered in Brazil in 1939.

Plans Available For Power Saws

Adams county woodsmen preparing for winter timber operations, perhaps many of them on farm woodlots, can save time and a lot of hard work by use of small electric power drag saws, County Agent M. T. Hartman said today.

Plans for these saws, which are handy for bucking logs, are available at the office of the county agent. Woods operators can rig up the saws themselves. Usually they are attached to a quarter horse-power motor.

Farm Calendar

are still brisk, extension foresters at the Pennsylvania State college report. They urge woodlot owners to prepare for the logging season by getting all tools, saws and equipment ready and sharp.

Remove Cornstalks—Only by removing sweet corn stalks from gardens can dangers of corn borer infestation be reduced. Old stalks provide a place for the pests to spend the winter, ready to renew their damage on crops in the spring.

Chamber Urges Reduction Of Tax

Washington, Oct. 17 (AP)—The United States Chamber of Commerce urged Congress today to give individual income tax payers a flat reduction of 20 to 25 per cent in the new tax bill.

Ellsworth C. Alvord, chairman of the Chamber's committee on federal finance, also asked the Senate Finance Committee for repeal of the corporate excess profits tax and reduction of the corporate surtax.

His prepared testimony came after Chairman George (D. Ga.) told reporters he believes tax relief under the bill should be limited to $5,000,000,000, as recommended by Secretary of the Treasury Fred M. Vinson.

The House Ways and Means Committee has estimated that its version of the legislation, as passed by the House, would reduce federal revenues $5,350,000,000.

RAYON'S FUTURE BRIGHT

Meadville, Pa., Oct. 17 (AP)—Rapid expansion of the American rayon industry in postwar years with probably 1½ billion pounds annual output by 1955 is predicted by W. C. Appleton, president of American Viscose Corporation, incorporation.

NEW WLB MAY BE FORMED BY HARRY TRUMAN

By STERLING F. GREEN

Washington, Oct. 17 (AP)—The War Labor Board stops issuing orders next Monday, but some members believe President Truman shortly will adopt their idea for a new commission to revise the wage-price policy.

In other quarters there were hints today that any new policy will not stray, far from the present hold-the-line formula.

This opinion was based in part on an anti-inflation speech delivered in Boston yesterday by Reconversion Director John W. Snyder.

As the United Mine Workers' strike continued to spread paralysis through the soft coal fields, these other developments occurred in Washington:

Anti-Strike Action

1. A spokesman for the bituminous operators said they were "almost together" on a new proposal which might permit the reopening of conciliation efforts conducted by Secretary of Labor Schwellenbach.

2. UMW President John L. Lewis considered calling the union's 250-man policy committee to Washington to confer on strategy on the dispute, which revolves around a demand for recognition of the UMW Foremen's Union.

3. There were vocal demands from senators for anti-strike legislation, with Sen. Reed, (R.-Kans.), asserting in an interview that unions should be held by law to "the proper degree of responsibility."

4. The House Military Committee scheduled hearings today on repeal of the Smith-Connally Act, the law that permits unions to petition for strike votes after a 30-day "cooling-off" period.

Critics of the act charge that it fosters strikes by giving implied government approval if unions vote to walk out.

demands remained one of the capitol's hottest issues.

The WLB came close to bowing out of that picture completely, however, by announcing last night that after October 22 it would:

Limit its future decisions to mere recommendations, instead of orders, except on appeals cases and pending cases in which the disputants have agreed voluntarily to accept the board's decision as binding.

Accept new voluntary cases only with the understanding that WLB will simply designate arbitrators; the board itself will not make the decisions.

Postal Sgt. Emmet Hartnett, of Johnstown, Pa., said the average time for a package or box from Japan to the United States is one month.

PULPWOOD

to STAY in!

Many people around here started cutting pulpwood during the war as a patriotic measure. They also found it was good business.

We believe pulpwood production will continue to be a good business in peace-time as in war-time for both full-time and part-time producers.

It is a business with no re-conversion problem. There are shortages of all kinds of civilian needs that will keep the industry going at top speed for a long time to come. And beyond that are a lot of new industrial uses for pulpwood developed during the war.

Every indication points to continued high demand and good prices for pulpwood.

Keeps Fish In Dam

Linesville, Pa., Oct. 17 (AP)—The "little fishes" in famed Pymatuning Lake Reservation are not, contrary to the popular old song, swimming "right over the dam" or any place else their electronic fish fence declares out of bounds.

They're fenced in by a screen consisting of one or more rows of metal electrodes through which electrical impulses travel to set up an electric field in adjoining water.

Henry T. Burkey of the Electric Fish Screen company, Hollywood, invented the fence, and Westinghouse Electric corporation engineers built a special generator for it.

Donald W. McGill, of Westinghouse, says the electric impulses create "an electrical force that gives the fish an effective but harmless shock and sends them scurrying back to a safe area."

Chapter 8
Anne and Wayne sat in the drawing room of Mrs. McDowell's house and waited for his owner to come in and greet them. It was an enormous room—indeed everything about the house seemed to have been done on a scale of grandeur. Its immensity took the breath away, as it was no doubt meant to do, leaving the casual visitor awed and impressed and quite ready to submit to anything Mrs. McDowell might suggest.

Mrs. McDowell paused in the doorway to regard the two who rose hastily at her entrance. Anne was utterly surprised to see that she was quite a small woman, almost bird-like in her appearance. Her neat black dress was unrelieved by jewelry with the exception of a fine old brooch at the throat. Her hands were small, very white and entirely ringless. Her tiny feet were encased in high-heeled, black kid slippers. Her black hair was parted in the middle, which gave her an appearance of docility and meekness. Only her eyes gave Edna McDowell away. They were as hard and cold as glittering black marble. Determination lurked in their depths, as did evidence of an iron will that would brook no interference with its desires.

Wayne sprang forward to meet her, drawing Anne with him. He was smiling happily, but a little tremor of nervous uneasiness was in his voice. "Well, here she is, Aunt Edna. Isn't she lovely?" Anne felt her fingers lightly touched by the small white hand. "Sit down, both of you," Mrs. McDowell ordered. "We'll have tea before we talk about your affairs."

"What is there to talk about?" Anne wondered as an elderly maid brought delicious hot tea and paper-thin sandwiches. Wayne chattered in his usual gay style until they had finished eating and the tea things were taken away. Then Mrs. McDowell took matters into her own hands.

"Wayne, I wish to speak to Miss Winslow alone. You will go upstairs until I send for you."

Anne almost laughed aloud. Why, she was speaking to Wayne as if he were a small boy who had been caught in a misdemeanor. Then her eyes widened in surprise as quite without question Wayne rose to do his aunt's bidding.

"Okay—I know when I'm not wanted, I guess!" he said. "See you later, Anne!" And Anne found herself alone in the great room with Edna McDowell. Panic flowed through her body. Wayne had no business deserting her like this! Why, it was outrageous! Somehow she sensed that a basis of understanding could never be reached between herself and this woman.

Mrs. McDowell folded her little white hands and spoke reasonably, calmly, as if to a small child. "Now, Miss Winslow, let's get this matter straight. Of course, you know that it would be very foolish for you to marry my nephew."

Anne steadied herself and was pleased to find that her voice compared quite favorably with Mrs. McDowell's in calmness. "Why, Mrs. McDowell?"

"My brother, Nathan Farham, your employer, tells me that you are a young woman of good sense. Then I have only to remind you that you would be marrying out of your class, you wouldn't have a chance!"

A little puke of anger began to beat in Anne's throat. "We love each other, Mrs. McDowell," she said, still in that quiet voice.

"You are quite young, both of you. You have no assurance that you may not meet someone you love better—or that Wayne may."

"I know what your plan is, young woman! You think you'll get a strange hold on my money through Wayne—or his child! Now I tell you that though Wayne will one day have my money—if you insist on going through with this idiotic marriage, you'll never get a cent of it! And I warn you—if I can possibly prevent the marriage, I will do it!"

Anne sat still, chilled to the very marrow of her bones. She felt degraded, bemirrored and quite angry at Wayne for having let her in for this and then left her alone. Could he have possibly believed his aunt would treat her kindly? She rose from her chair. "Then I'm sure we have nothing more to say to each other, Mrs. McDowell," she said. "I do not choose to argue with you, or go into the reasons why I feel sure that Wayne and I can make a success of our marriage. So I'll go now."

Mrs. McDowell rose, too. "I will tell Wayne that you are leaving. Good-day, Miss Winslow."

Anne walked to the window trying her best to control the hot tears of fury that threatened to overflow. She set her teeth firmly against her lower lip. She would not let this hard little woman see her cry if it took every last ounce of will-power she possessed!

She heard the door open and close and knew that she was alone in the big room. She had never felt so humiliated—so—so cheapened in her life!

Wayne came in, stood behind her for a moment without speaking, then put his hands on her shoulders to turn her about. She had never seen him so serious before, and suddenly, somehow, she was in his arms, sobbing against his lapel.

"Don't, darling!" he whispered. "Nothing's changed! We still love each other, don't we?" "But she—she made me feel as if you'd be lowering yourself to marry me. She said—"

"Look, Anne," Wayne said, his finger under her chin lifting her face to his. "I don't care what she said. We're going to be married. Once the ceremony's over, Aunt Edna will give in—she's never denied me anything I wanted lately—and I want you for my wife more than I've ever wanted anything. Now let's get out of here."

During the remainder of the evening he was tender, comforting, all that her heart could desire in a lover. Almost he succeeded in erasing from her mind that unhappy scene. But when he had left her and she lay awake in bed, she remembered again the flint-like black eyes of Edna McDowell and the words she had spoken. "If I can possibly prevent the marriage, I will do it!"
